COUPLE FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN BROOKLYN.

Intending Man Shot at Husband When He Tried to Eject Him.

New York, June 17.—Mrs. Barbara Cornelius, wife of a produce market employee, and George McGaghon of Jersey City were found shot to death in the bedroom of Mrs. Cornelius' Brooklyn home early today. The police were informed of the tragedy by the woman's husband, who said that McGaghon climbed in their bedroom window during the night and fired a shot at him when he tried to put him out, and while he was trying to arouse neighbors, killed Mrs. Cornelius and then committed suicide.

The police gave it as their opinion that McGaghon fired the shots. He was found lying on the floor with a revolver clutched in his hand and with powder marks on his fingers. Cornelius, who is a night worker, said that he had never seen McGaghon before and had taken him for a burglar. The police say they learned that Mrs. Cornelius had received postal cards of a loving nature signed with McGaghon's initials.

Unidentified Turks.

Each of the armies in the great war has a regular system which enables it to identify the dead. The Russian soldier wears a numbered badge, the French soldier has an identification card stitched into his tunic, the German soldier a little metal disc bearing his number; the British soldier has an aluminum disc, with identification marks and church affiliation; the Japanese soldier has three discs, all alike, one on the neck, another in his belt, and one in his boot; the Austrian has a gunmetal badge, locket shape, with identification on a tiny parchment leaf within. The Turk is the only soldier who is so lightly valued that he carries no badge, identification evidently being regarded as needless.—Christian Herald.

A Son of Premier Asquith Wounded.

London, June 17, 6:45 p. m.—News was received in London today that Lieutenant Herbert Asquith, a son of the British premier, had been slightly wounded on the field of battle.

DENMARK TO MAINTAIN ABSOLUTE NEUTRALITY

Lower House of Parliament Votes to Sustain the Ministry.

London, June 17, 3:45 p. m.—A Reuters despatch from Copenhagen says the Danish Folketing, or lower house of parliament, today unanimously resolved to support the ministry in its policy of absolute neutrality.

A despatch from Copenhagen Wednesday said that as a result of attacks by the conservative newspapers of the country for the formation of a coalition government owing to the radical cabinet's policy of neutrality in the war, the government purposed to ask for a vote of confidence on its policy and that if this was not given it would resign.

How Sandbags are Made. Hundreds of thousands of sandbags are being used on the continent to form cover for the soldiers along the tops of the trenches. But though the bags are being sent out as fast as possible by the authorities, more are still wanted, and many people are making them in their spare time. The best thing to make sandbags from is the material called Hessian, the same kind of stuff that is used to make very rough aprons. The most important thing to remember about the bags is their size, for if they are not of the regulation size, they are useless. The bags should be thirty-three inches long by fourteen inches wide. If they are made any larger they are too heavy to lift easily, when filled with sand or earth. Sandbags should never be sewn up with thread, for they have to stand exposure of all sorts of weather, and thread would not very quickly, allowing the sand to escape. The bags should be sewn with fine string, and a double piece of strong string should be left at the mouth of the bag, so as to enable it to be closed when filled with earth. All bags, by the way, should be sent to Miss Tyler, Linden House, Highgate Road, London, N. W., who will see they are forwarded quickly to the front.—Exchange.

Mr. Elias S. Palmer is desirous of teaching a school in the Pawcatuck academy (which was located near site of the old town hall) the ensuing winter, or longer, provided his school should meet the approval of the employers and should prove sufficiently productive to compensate him for his services; to commence on Monday, the 21st inst.; he is to take the academy at the usual rental of $625 per quarter, and to furnish his own wood, etc. (We, the undersigned, proprietors in said academy, do hereby approve of the said E. S. Palmer taking the said academy on the aforementioned terms and that he commence his school as soon as may be convenient. Rowse Babcock, Nathan P. Dixon, Stephen Wilcox, George Gavit, James Maxson, executor to the last will of A. Cross, Elizabeth Hazard, George D. Cross, William Robinson.)

There was a report, with refusal of verification, Thursday afternoon, that Charles P. Ecclestone had purchased for Mary A. Damers from the Lorraine Manufacturing company the property in West Broad street between the Walton building and the Pawcatuck river bridge. The purchased land was the site of the old Stillman mill and the Star theatre destroyed a few years ago. It is said that the purchase price was $15,000, but this is discredited by one versed in the valuation of real estate, who said that a price of $3,500 would be fair to all concerned.

Mrs. Mary S. Burdick of New York settled the civil suits brought against her to recover for work and materials furnished in connection with the improvement of her property in Westerly by contract with her authorized agent. The Abel P. Randall claim for plumbing, which traveled through the district and superior courts, was fully settled on Thursday. Mrs. Burdick also settled the case brought by Edwin Latham, a painter, which was assigned

WESTERLY INTERESTED IN REPORTS

Of State Sunday School Union—Secretary Dunn Warns Against Army Worm—Reported Real Estate Sale on West Broad Street—Band Concert Delights Audience of 1,000.

Several of the earlier reports of the Rhode Island Sunday School union, which was organized as auxiliary to the American Sunday School union, in 1826, have been received by the Westerly Library and Memorial association, thus encouraging the effort to secure a complete collection. In 1832, these two Sunday schools, located in Westerly, were connected with the union, and their report was as follows: Noyes Sunday school, J. W. Noyes, superintendent, one male and four female teachers, forty male and fifty female pupils, three teachers and nine pupils were converted and there were ninety-eight in the library. Lottery Sunday school, Capt. Amos Barns, superintendent; three male and five female teachers, eighteen male and twenty female pupils, four teachers and one pupil were converted and there were seventy-seven volumes in the library.

The Pawcatuck society of Westerly, Dr. John Rose superintendent, was not auxiliary to the union, with 7 male and 8 female teachers, 35 male and 81 female pupils and five male teachers. In the union there were 100 societies, 113 schools, 495 male and 747 female teachers, 4,211 male and 4,081 female pupils and 87 teachers and 105 pupils professed religion during the year.

The report of Walter Paine, treasurer, showed a balance in the treasury of $2.85. The reports for the local schools to the seventh annual convention, held in Providence, April 4, 1832, follow: "Noyes Neighborhood, Westerly—This school is not permanent. When in operation it has always been connected with a week-day school. The latter could not have been supported but for the benevolence of the Providence Tract and Education society and the pecuniary assistance of a few individuals particularly acquainted with its state. There are many obstacles to the school, such as the indifference, prejudice and opposition of some parents—the distance (from one to three miles) which most of the teachers and pupils have to walk—often through meadows—and the consequent irregularity in attendance. Another obstacle, which perhaps is the principal one, is the different Sabbaths kept (about one-half being Sabbatarian). Under these circumstances, it is surprising that the school is so large. There are 90 pupils on the list. Three of the teachers are of the pupils. It appears to have recently obtained a well-founded hope in Christ. Among the nine is a boy of 13 or 14 years—a mixed descendant of the Narragansetts.

"A visit from the secretary of the mission, on the eve of the last day of school, was the means of exciting unusual interest in behalf of the school, and many were there that evening convicted of sin—some very soon submitting their will to God—others still inquiring the way. When mercies have been thus abundant and marked, we can hardly doubt the goodness of God for the future. Surely, if He has begun a good work among us, He will perfect that which concerneth us." The lottery, Westerly—Four of the teachers are one of the pupils. This school is professed religion within the last 12 months. The prosperity and even existence of the school, will depend very much on the teacher of the free school. Most of the men of this place during summer are gone to sea."

The East Greenwich academy team is a claimant for the school championship of Rhode Island, with Stonington on the side, having won 11 of the 13 games played. Westerly and Stonington are the only teams that have defeated the East Greenwich boys. In return games both Westerly and Stonington were beaten. The academy team from Colt farm, near Pawcatuck, LaSalle, Cranston, South Kingston twice, Warwick and Moses Brown. This claim is disputed by Warwick, it being claimed that the Peleg victory over Stonington, champion of the Eastern Connecticut and Southern Rhode Island interscholastic league, and its 1 to 2 victory over Technical High, places Warwick the fastest high school team in Rhode Island and Connecticut.

John J. Dunn, of Westerly, secretary of the state board of agriculture, has prepared and had printed a pamphlet on the habits of the army worm, and the best method of dealing with this pest. The pamphlet will be distributed throughout the state as a precautionary measure, and will be of value in case the crawling things put in an appearance.

Conditions have changed in the schools and method of conduct. Westerly during the past century, when school buildings were owned by individuals and hired by teachers to instruct the young, now to shoot, as shown in this document, dated Westerly, Nov. 13, 1825:

Mr. Elias S. Palmer is desirous of teaching a school in the Pawcatuck academy (which was located near site of the old town hall) the ensuing winter, or longer, provided his school should meet the approval of the employers and should prove sufficiently productive to compensate him for his services; to commence on Monday, the 21st inst.; he is to take the academy at the usual rental of $625 per quarter, and to furnish his own wood, etc. (We, the undersigned, proprietors in said academy, do hereby approve of the said E. Mrs. Burdick also settled the case brought by Edwin Latham, a painter, which was assigned for hearing in the Third district court today.

The Westerly band gave the second concert of the series in Wilcox park Thursday evening, and over 1,000 enjoyed the rendition of the following programme: March, Daughters American Revolution; Lampe, waltz, Wedding of the Winds; solo, The Commodore Polka, Chambers, by Charles O. Gavit, leader; medley overture, Stern All Star, Smith; march, Neutrality, Bernard; Welch air, Gems of Cambria, Round; dance, With Pleasure, Sousa; popular airs, selected; finale, Star Spangled Banner.

Among the fifty-four claims of Rhode Island residents brought against steamer Rochester, aggregating $501,000, that of Elizabeth R. Clark of Ashaway, administratrix of the estate of Charles W. Clark, who was a member of the legislature, and son of William L. Clark for many years president of the Westerly town council. Many of the members of the Rhode Island party on the Put-in-Bay steamer were injured by attacks of typhoid fever on their return home and several deaths resulted. An investigation was made and resulted in the suits to recover damages. The Rhode Island party boarded the Rochester at Buffalo and proceeded to Put-in-Bay in connection with the Perry celebration.

The libel filed in behalf of the claimants for damages alleges that the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co. contracted the contract in violation of the law, failing to provide suitable food, water and accommodations for the passengers on board during the trip. The claimants were injured by attacks of typhoid fever on their return home and several deaths resulted. An investigation was made and resulted in the suits to recover damages. The Rhode Island party boarded the Rochester at Buffalo and proceeded to Put-in-Bay in connection with the Perry celebration.

In compliance with the request of Secretary of Commerce Redfield, a delegation has been named to represent the state at the government conference on lobster propagation to be held at Woods Hole, July 12. The delegation is composed of Charles W. Willard of Westerly, William H. Boardman, James G. Johnson and Theophile Guerin, the members of the board of inland fisheries, with superintendent of the state hatchery at Wickford.

A large number of bids submitted to the Rhode Island board of control and supply in Providence, Thursday, upon the contracts for the central heating plant at the school for the Feeble Minded at Exeter, and the central heating and electric plant at the state institution at Howard. Among the bidders for the latter are the Connecticut Engineering and Contracting company of Norwich, and the Whitall Electric company of Westerly.

Local Laocoms. Wyman Pendleton of Providence is visiting in Westerly. During the storm of Thursday morning there was a small fire of an inch recorded in Westerly. The Westerly Boy Scouts made a systematic canvass of Westerly and Pawcatuck for funds for a series of entertainments to be given during the summer and collected over $300. Judge Albert R. Stillman of Pawcatuck and Rev. F. Stewart Kinley, they to select an associate, will act as a board of judges for the Peleg paper essay to be competed for by pupils of the West Broad street school.

At the annual meeting of the Westerly branch of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners these officers were elected: Eugene Sullivan, president; James Lynch, recording secretary; Charles E. Austin, financial secretary; Thomas Murphy, treasurer. At the annual banquet of the Westerly Board of Trade at the Ocean house next Tuesday night Halliday Witherspoon, war correspondent, will speak on "What a Soldier Thinks of War." Anthony Dyer of Providence will give an address on "What an Artist Thinks of Modern Business."

Edward McFarvie, aged 53, haker by occupation, died Wednesday night at the home of his son in West Broad street, Pawcatuck. He was a member of the court of Foresters of Wakefield and will be buried in St. Francis cemetery, Wakefield. He is survived by a son, John McFarvie, of Pawcatuck, and a daughter, Margaret McFarvie, of Providence.

STONINGTON

Shriners on Annual Outing—Allen Avery's Bequest For the Poor—Estimated at $30,000.

William D. Broughton, W. Park Bindless, Francis C. Dixon, of Stonington and George T. Hempstead of Groton, enjoyed the annual outing of Palestine Temple, Mystic Shrine, upon the 14th anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill. The temple is located in Providence and the local party left for that city on the Federal express Thursday morning. There was a business meeting in Masonic Temple, followed by a parade to the steamer Warwick and the Shriners were conveyed to where a dinner was served. Then Newport was visited and the party returned to Providence at 10 o'clock Thursday night.

Remembered the Poor. Allen Avery, who died Monday and was buried Thursday afternoon leaves an estate of perhaps $50,000, a fair proportion of which is to be given to the town of Stonington in aid of the poor of the town.

Schedule Disarranged. The cars of the Groton and Stonington line were not running on regular schedule time Thursday by reason of the work in connection with a change in the location of the turn out at St. Mary's cemetery to a point about a quarter of a mile to the eastward. This probably means like changes at Mystic and Wequetequock.

Pan-Handler Punished. Patrolman Shelby Nicholas, of Pawcatuck, escorted a man from some other town to the town court of Stonington, Thursday morning, where he was arraigned on the charge of inebriation and pleaded guilty. Judge Frank H. Hinckley imposed a fine of $2 and costs, a total of $20.76. In default of payment the accused was
